NON-PROFIT DIRECTORS & OFFICERS (D&O) AKA: MANAGEMENT LIABILITY INSURANCE FOR NON-PROFIT ORGANIZATIONS

Why do non-profit organizations need a separate D&O policy?

Directors and officers of non-profit organizations carry significant risk to their personal assets in the event of the organization's bankruptcy or insolvency. These organizations along with their directors, officers, employees, and volunteers may be the subject of numerous types of claims that can incur significant defense costs over several years. It is important to remember that a lawsuit does not need to have merit to have a financial impact.

What if I have coverage already?

Please review your current policy coverages and policy wordings and seek consultation through your insurance broker or representative. There is a good chance that any "inclusive coverage" through a master policy or an organization's policy has limited coverage and may not be broad enough to cover your directors and officers' liabilities. Most "inclusive" directors and officers coverages only indemnify directors and officers for compensatory damage claims. This means claims seeking monetary compensation. The policy wording is very limited and an insurance broker would be able to identify this on your behalf. For example, there could be claims and allegations against your directors and officers where there is no demand for monetary compensation. This could be a gap in your policy and therefore your organization will be responsible for the defense costs.

What can non-profit organizations purchase?

A separate D&O policy can be purchased through various insurance companies to encompass liability coverage for directors and officers (D&O), employment practices (EPL), fiduciary and outside directorship (ODL).

What can a separate D&O policy cover?

A separate D&O policy or management liability can protect the organization and individuals against a variety of allegations such as general negligence, misrepresentation, defamation, wrongful termination, discrimination, harassment, non-disclosure, as well as statutory liabilities under human rights, environment, and occupational health and safety legislation. Most separate D&O policies provide coverage for compensatory damages (monetary rewards awarded by a judge) AND punitive damages (awards intended to punish).

CLAIMS EXAMPLES

Please note: These are claims examples referenced by an insurance company.

Negligence and Breach of Trust

After filing for bankruptcy, a non-profit organization was sued for negligence and breach of trust for failing to repay a temporary operating fund provided by another organization for a fundraising event.

Unethical Conduct

A former member sued the board of a professional association alleging that the board of directors had targeted her, and that they had not followed the organization's bylaws, when they revoked her membership for unethical conduct.

Wrongful Termination

After being terminated for sexual misconduct and harassment, a senior executive sued the non-profit organization for wrongful termination, and the directors and officers for alleged interference with contractual relations.

Wrongful Termination

As part of a corporate reorganization, a large non-profit organization terminated the employment of a long-term employee. The employee sued the organization alleging wrongful termination. The employee also alleged that she had been defamed as a result of a written communication that had found its way into the hands of individuals outside the board of directors of the organization.

Negligent Misrepresentation

A non-profit organization successfully applied for, and received, government funding for the purpose of organizing and hosting an event. Unfortunately, the expenses incurred for the event far exceeded the revenues received. After a government audit, it was determined that the funds had not been used for the purposes described in the funding application. The government commenced an action seeking damages due to the alleged negligent misrepresentations in the application documents and for the alleged breach of fiduciary duty on the part of the directors of the organization.

Breach of Fiduciary Duty

A member of a professional association sued the association and several of its directors and officers as a result of a disagreement with respect to licensing requirements. The member sought damages as compensation for the alleged breach of fiduciary duty, defamation and interference with economic interests.
